PARADE OF IDLE IS BARRED

Part of the Crowd Dispersed Early In Night March

GATHER FOR ACTION

New York Police Use Strong Arm Methods To Force Jobless To Disperse Crowds. Grows to 20,000

New York, Sept. 20.—Police reserves from a dozen precincts were hurried to the Public Library at Forty-second street and Fifth Avenue last night, to disperse the crowds attracted by Urbain J. Ledoux's advertised purpose of auctioning off unemployed men from the library steps at that hour.

Shortly after midnight parts of the crowd which had earlier been driven from about the library reassembled and, marching to Central Park under the lead of two young men in khaki, attempted to hold an auction. Police interfered here and the crowd proceeded to Columbus Circle, where another attempt at an auction was made at the base of the Columbus Monument. This, too, was broken up, and the crowd started down Broadway, eight abreast, ostensibly for City Hall.

As they marched they were chanting: "We want Ledoux; we want jobs."

Previously Ledoux had called the auction off on the ground that to attempt to hold it would result in trouble and probable injury to many persons. This decision he reached after an attempt to hold a meeting at noon in Bryant Hall, Sixth Avenue near Forty-second street, had been blocked by the police, who used strong arm methods to disperse a crowd of several thousands who had gathered.

Following the dispersal of this crowd all was quiet about the Public Library and Bryant Park until well into the evening, when the park had begun to fill up and thousands of curiosity seekers had begun to gather about the library. At 10:30 Capt. Edward A. Howard, of the West Thirtieth Street Station with 300 men, ordered the park cleared and closed.

It was, they admitted, a dangerous situation that might easily lead to serious trouble, though the crowd was made up mostly of the merely curious anxious to see the free show which Ledoux had promised. The police tried to assure these that the auction had been called off, but they insisted on waiting around to see for themselves.

This good nature began to wear off after awhile, and pressed by those in the rear and therefore out of reach of the police clubs, the crowd several times surged against the lines holding Forty-escond street open in an effort to return to the park. Several times also the lines broke, but were quickly reformed, with the police using their night sticks as prods to drive the men back.

Meantime, Fifth Avenue above the library had begun to fill up until the westerly sidewalk, from Fortieth street to Fort-second street, was a solid crowd of humans. The library steps and grounds were also crowded. This crowd like that in Forty-second street, was good natured until Inspector Boattler, with a force of 40 plainclothes men, started to clear it out.

Boattler marched his men up the avenue until opposite the library, when at the command "left face, forward," it wheeled into the crowd and began shooting it up and down the avenue and into the side streets. It took this good-naturedly at first, then it began to boo and hiss the police and call for Ledoux as the crowd in Forty-second street had been doing. The police persisted, however, and kept the avenue open to traffic which with the closing of the theatres, was bginning to assume rush hour proportions.

The closing of the theatres also added thousands to the crowds, which by 11:30 numbered not less than 20,000, in the opinion of men accustomed to estimating public gatherings.

Letter From Mr. Ogden

September 20, 7921

Editor, Alexandria Gazette;

Please permit me to correct the notice appearing in the columns of your paper, under the date of September 19th, in which it is stated that there may be a contest at the next regular meeting of the City Council, for the office of Fire Chief, and that Fire Chief Edward J. McDermott may be opposed by the writer.

In a conversation with the representative of your esteemed paper on Saturday night last, I most emphatically stated I would not oppose Mr. McDermott under any circumstances. Not only did I make this statement at that time, but on several occasions since and to numerous persons, and it is difficult to understand why the article was so written as to convey an entirely different version.

It is true that I have been approached by a number of persons identified with the official and business interests of this city, who have urged me to, at least, become a receptive candidate under certain conditions. After some deliberation and a careful study of the conditions suggested, I consented, with no idea in mind, however, of entering a contest of any description, nor opposing anybody, nor have I sought the Support of any person in this connection.

Respectfully yours,

KENNETH W. OGDEN

J. F. PEYTON CALLED BY DEATH TODAY

Prominent Newspaper Man Succumbs After Two Months Illness

STRICKEN JULY 16

Twenty Years Correspondent of Washington Post—At One Time Engaged In the Theatrical Business

James Franklin Peyton 50 years old, numaried, one of the best known newspaper correspondents in this section of the state died at 12:35 o'clock this afternoon at his residence in the Wagar Apartment. His death followed an illness lasting more than two months. Mr. Peyton was stricken July 16 last. Despite the fact that he afterwavd realized the seriousness of his illness he never for on moment gave up hope and made a valiant struggle although he gradually grew weaker And never once did he complain regarding his illness.

The deceased was a son of Mrs. Maria C. C. and the late James Franklin Peyton and was born in this city March 8 1871. Shortly after leaving school he became a clerk in the general offices of the Southern Railway Company in Washington and subsquently accepted a position with that company in Atlanta' Ga. Later he engaged in the newspaper business and became editor of the Alexandria Times. Mr. Peyton next turned his attention to the theatrical business and became manager of the Alexandria Opera House and under his management some of the best shows on the road were presented at the Opera House. Later Mr. Peyton became advance agent for the Edwin Ferry Theatrical Company and afterwards was business manager in the same capacity with Elihu Spencer After relinquishing the theatrical business he resumed newspaper work and for the past 20 yeas he had been the Alexandria representative of the Washington Post. During the year 1918 Mr. Peyton served as business manager for the Alexandria Gazette and in his early manhood had been a frequent contributor to the Gazette

As a newspaper writer Mr. Peyton had always made good. "Jim" Peyton as he was affectionately known to his many friends was never "scopped" in the newspaper vernacular on any big story. Throughout his career with the Post he was always on guard and never permitted his paper to be left on any big news item regardless of hours. In his work he was always faithful and painstaking and accurate and never once during his twenty years with the Post had anv of his articles caused his paper any uneasiness.

Mr. Peyton was well known not only in Alexandria but in Washington as well enjoying an unually wide circle of friends among practically all of the newspaper men in Washington and also in various sections of Virginia. His friends were legion and the announcement of his death this afternoon was received with sincere regret.

Besides his mother he is survived by a sister Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson.

Mr. Peyton was a member of Alexandria Lodge No. 758 Benevolent and Proteotive Order of Elks. A meeting of that lodge will be held at 8 o'clock tonight for the purpose of taking action on his death. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Sept. 20.—In order to carry on the warfare upon whiskey smugglers along the Atlantic coast prohibition authorities may ask for some of the obsolete types of destroyers and submarine chasers in the U. S. Navy. Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, summing up reports of inspectors assigned to smuggling activities has stressed in discussions with his superiors the urgent need at this time of a coast patrol which the authorities may employ effectively to stop the flow of ilicit liquor from aboard. Dry law officers base their hope for some of the navy's ships on Director of the Budget Dawes' decision to transfer from the Navy to other branches of the service ships that might otherwise be "junked" or sold at a sacrifice. As smuggling is growing more serious, officials believe the only solution is an efficient patrol of the coasts by speedy government ships.

To Reduce Jobless Army

According to reports reaching Secretary of Commerce Hoover the ranks of the jobless will be reduced substantially within thirty days by more normal operations in coal mines. Survey of unemployment in the coal industry, which is lacking because of slow buying, revealed to economic experts detailed by Secretary Hoover for this study that perhaps 15 per cent. more of the idleness in the country is due directly to the shutdowns or part time operations in coal mining regions. Secretary Hoover expects that by the close of October conditions will improve greatly in the larger bituminous fields, where unemployment is most severe.

Bank Accounts Increase

Americans are swelling their savings in banks in all parts of the United States. Reports to Comptroller of the Currency Crissinger, showing savings banks deposits of $6,000,000,000 revealed that savings habit is spreading even in localities where unemployment is great. Comptroller Crissinger and other officials dealing with fiscal problems take the view that the government's war bond selling program has had the effect of safeguarding the average American home against want and added a greater measure of financial security to the average citizen. They point to the vast holdings by small investors of government securities. They estimate that the bulk of the $21,000,000,000, represented by Liberty bonds and Victory notes outstanding among war buyers are held by individuals of the small investor type.

Await Signing of Peace

There will be no diplomatic representative from Germany recognized by this government until after the treaty of peace signed by the United States Senate. There has been some suggestion from Berlin that a Charge D' affaires from Germany might come to Washington for the purpose of carrying on certain negotiations with the American State Department. But there will be no recognition given to such an envoy from Germany until after the Senate acts upon the pact which, it is expected, the President will submit during the present week.

To Consolidate Service

The consolidation of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps air services is to be proposed in the recommendations for the reorganization of the government departments in the scheme now being worked out by the Joint Congresional Committee. The flying services are to be an independent bureau under the Department of National Defense formed by the combination of the War and Navy Departments. While, of course ,Congressional approval will have to be obtained before such a scheme is put into force it is known that there is strong probability that it will be adopted, but not, however, without a fight. The recommendations will bring to a head the long-standing contest between those who favor a united air service and those who wish the Army, Navy and Mraine Corps to retain thier flying facilities as auxiliary arms.

Unemployment Congress

The conference on unemployment will begin its sessions on Monday next and the delegates will meet in the conference room of the Department of Commerce. It is the hope of the originators of the conference that the meeting will evolve a scheme for combating unemployment which will do away with the giving of "charity jobs." Capital and labor will both be represented at the conference but no particular group or faction has been invited to the meeting. Secretary Hoover and his associates on the conference will endeavor to reach some agreement with reference to non-employment which will relieve the present industrial situation throughout the country.

TODAY'S THOUGHT Few men have the natural strength to honor a friend's success without envy. I know well that mirror of friendship, shadow of a shade.
Aeschylus.

WHY NOT GO!

On Thursday and Friday of this week, September 22 and 23, the Virginia Real Estate Association will hold a convention at Richmond, the main purpose of which will be to consider the best means of developing the uncultivated lands of the state. Governor Davis has officially requested agricultural and commercial bodies to send delegates.

It is stated that there are about 12 million acres of tillable land in Virginia that are not in cultivation; and that of the ten million acres in cultivation, only half are in actual tilth each year.

It is estimated by a former Secretary of Agriculture that a farmer had a commercial value to the state of some fifteen hundred dollars annually. So that if our twelve million acres were halved, and then divided into farms of 100 acres each, the increased value to the state each year would amount to not less than 90 million dollars!

There is undoubtedly work cut out for this Convention. If those present can devise any practical means whereby the idle lands of the state can be placed under tillage they will have performed a service that will be of as much value to the people as any two ordinary legislative sessions. It will be in line of making a hundred blades of grass grow where none grew before. This thought reminds us of the saying of Dean Swift. In fact it is a subconscious suggestion arising from a dim memory of his famous "Gulliver's Travels," read in boyhood. It is so apt to the purpose that we quote it in full: "And he gave it for his opinion, that whoever could make two ears of corn, or two blades of grass, to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind, and do more essential service to his country, than the whole race of politicians put together."

So we wish all success to the Virginia Real Estate Association. If it does no more than arouse popular sentiment to a realization of the fact that agriculture is the basis of a country's prosperity, and that an increase in our farm acreage is an indubitable increase in our prosperity, it will have taken a long stride in the right direction.

Anonymous Circular Attacking University Has Excited Comment

Charlottesville Va. Sept. 20.—An unsigned circular letter, containing no indication of its origin, dealing with the relations of the University of Virginia to the problems of rural medical practice, has been received in Charlottesville and has presumably been distributed generally throughout the State. It excited considerable comment here both because of its anonymous character and because of its unwarranted attack on the university. The letter attempted to show that Richmond is necessary as the site for the consolidated State supported medical school to insure a sufficient supply.

The letter was brought to the attention of Dean Tehodore Hough of the medical department of the University of Virginia. Dean Hough refused to comment on it further than to direct attention to a statement made in the first paragraph "that there are only 20 medical graduates of the University of Virginia practicing medicine in the rural section of the State.' Dean Hough stated that a medical directory of Virginia's living medical alumni published in 1916 showed that at that time there were 100 men who had received their degrees of doctor of medicine at the university who were practicing in Virginia towns of 2,500 population or less. Dean Hough did not believe that 80 per cent of these men had died or abondoned their practice within the last five years.

Dean Hough called attention to his letter in Richmond Times Dispatch of August 12, in which this problem and its relation to the medical school controversy was discussed. He stated that the university contemplated the publication of a pamplet in the near future which would deal with this issue in minute detail.

More About Trimmings

Trimmings are interesting and various. More ribbons, beaded effects, and rosettes and ruffles of the material are some of these.

Moire ribbon is put on in fascinating clusters of tabs about four inches long, peeping from under tucks. A georgette dress boasted a deep band of these tabs, all set on in rows at its hem. Generally the trimming is horizontal.

Bead trimming is more concentrated as to pattern and tends to accent the lines of the dress.

Ruffles of taffeta cleverly fringed by fraying the material are also used Rosettes and flowers of the material of the dress are appliqued for decoration thereof. Some eyelet embroidery is seen. Garnet thread is often used to embroider navy blue.

Canton crepe of a finer variety is popular among the fall materials and also georgettes and taffetas. Taffeta is the great favorite.

Evening dresses this year will be filmy with wide laces. And praise be, the colors are to have it their own way. Dyed laces in ecru, grey, yellow, raspberry, and orchid will add to the fairylike quality of the party frock.

For the youthful, bouffant taffeta in gay colors makes an appropriate setting. Trimmings on these are usually appliquel roses, ruffles and fruits.

But to return to laces. Cascades of lace trail their filmy lengths below tightly fitted taffeta bodices with charming effect. Over a chiffon drop, a single full skirt of lace will fall, for the direct purpose of intriguing the beholder.

A softly draped lace neckline was noticeable on some of these costumes while others wore long loose sleeves of lace.

Generally dresses for the ball carefully omit sleeves, occasionally they are careless enough to let a narrow band of taffeta cross the upper arm.

But, strange to say, with these sleeveless gowns are many high necks. A fitted round effect is the usual treatment.

Apparently the very low down-to-the-waistline back is to be omitted. Let those who were shocked at our past season's frocks take hope.

Sports costumes this fall are self-expressive as all our other autumn moods. Black and white are combined in many, many ways. Sleeveless packets for the early season are great favorites.

Smart Sport Outfits.

A three-piece suit in jersey seems especially wearable. A straight slip-over jersey dress comes in jade, grey, rose and black. With this the simple hand made blouse is appropriate with its fresh collars and cuffs. To complete the costume a sport jacket of matching color offers its soft comfort, with two pockets just where one's hand will easily find them. A silk sweater with a plaid skirt makes a pleasant combination. Because of their gay bright colors, sports things are so very attractive.

If among the wonderfully designed and beautifully colored clothes offered this fall you cannot select a complete wardrobe, exactly fitting your personal needs, you are indeed an unhappy woman. You do not deserve sympathy.

But you are rare. Most of us will find ourselves correctly and smartly gowned in this year's frocks, fitting as they so perfectly do, the every need of the busy day of the modern woman.

Clews Financial Review

New York Sept. 20.—President Harding's call for a conference on unemployment is expected to furnish the occasion for a general consideration of business conditions. The announcement that controversial issues would be barred may prevent discussion of some of the most debatable matters, such as tariff and tax policy, but a review of the general business outlook and the prospects for revival of industry must of course constitute the staple of debate on the occasion. Although there have been many extreme reports on unemployment careful examination of the conditions during August seem to show that there has been but little change, and that little for the better.

There are, in fact, an increasing number of hopeful indications from day to day. Chief among these continues to be the much better net revenues of the railroads. It would seem likely that the July improvement over last year would hardly be less than $75 000,000 and while for the half year the net income is by no means up to the 6 per cent level of profit named in the Transportation Act, it is so much better than had been feared that the railroad issues have been able to maintain themselves quite well. Favorable also as an index of business conditions is the steady and early movement of many crops to market at remunerative prices. Cotton of course continues the exception as to yield, the Government's report on September 1 pointing to a crop of little more than 7,000 000 bales. The early marketing movement has been furthered by the belief that farm prices as a whole will not advance very greatly, while producers are naturally desirous of getting funds with which to liquidate back debts; but, whatever the cause it naturally facilitates the restoration of buying power and curtails the burden of credit strain which would otherwise be felt. The outlook for a good fall business in many lines is still excellent.

Disclosure of the fact that the Interboro owes about $3,000,000 in unpaid obligations and has been negotiating for the extension of its $38,000,000 notes maturing September 1, was not surprising to those who have been close to the traction situation, but gave an unpleasant shock to the rank and file of investors. The sharp fall in the price of Interboro securities was under these conditions to be expected. With a very large majority of the notes deposited under an extension agreement, however, and the comparatively small amount due creditors there is good reasons for believing that a receivership will be avoided, especially as with lower operating costs the traction companies are now making a much more creditable showing.

While visiting President Obregon a delegation of American business men representing oil companies interested in the Mexican wells now are assured of some relaxation in the unfavorable tax conditions established by past Governments in that country. The effect of the visit has therefore been to improve the market position of the oils and of shares affiliated with them at the same time that the decision of the Mexican Supreme Court is adverse to the retroactive provision of article 27 of the Mexican Constitution. This improvement has extended itself to other departments of the market and the increase in value resulting from it has thus been considerably broadened. Industrial reports concerning the petroleum situation show an improvement both in demand and in price. Rather better conditions in the copper fields have likewise helped the value of shares in that department and there is a good expectation of improvement in their export position within the near future. Although the statement of United States Rubber showed a deficit the market had already fairly discounted the contents of the statement and the stock has been strengthened rather than reduced by the announcement.

Germany's payment of $150,000,000 additional in gold marks on August 31, shows that that country is at length applying itself to the task of meeting the reparations requirements It is a natural consequence of this settlement that there should be an upward movement in sterling and francs, but such fluctuations are probably temporary. The arrival of some important British and French maturities in the near future as well as the apparent fact that both English and the Continental countries will have to import heavily of our staples during the coming two or three months necessitates a strong demand for dollars, which, in the absence of some exceptional influences, should tend to raise the value of American currency relatively to that of foreign countries at least a degree. The continuation of very heavy imports of gold into the United States has now brought the estimated net gain of that metal for the first eight months of the year up to near $500 000,000. This, while it emphasizes the reserve strength of our banking system tends to increase the difficulty of a restoration of normal trade conditions. According to a statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of this city, loans of the rapidly in July than in any previous rapidly in July than in nay previous month since the maximum of credit expansion was reached last year.

Better demand for most classes of shares has prevailed throughout the week. The prevalence of higher prices was partly due to a short covering but was also in part the result of a genuine feeling of hopefulness with regard to the future. Values are low, but unfortunately buyers continue scarce. On the speculative side of the market there has been no particular change in conditions except that an over extended short interest has been somewhat reduced. The bear account is still sufficiently large to make it vulnerable should the demand for stocks undergo any appreciable increase. There is renewed demand for bonds. New issues are easily absorbed and even the floating supply of old issues is being taken up by investors who feel that with comparatively easy money assured for a long time ahead no better opportunity than the present will be afforded for investing safely and at the same time getting in large returns. A demand for bonds is usually the prelude to increased inquiry for the shares of strong railroad and industrial corporations.

DODSON SOUNDS CALOMEL'S DOOM

The 'Liver Tone' Man Warns Folks Against the Sickening, Salivating Drug

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tomght and tomorrow you lose a day.

Calomel is mercury! When it comes into contact with sour bile, it crashes into it, breaking it up. Then is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish, if liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous, go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it can not saivate or make you sick.

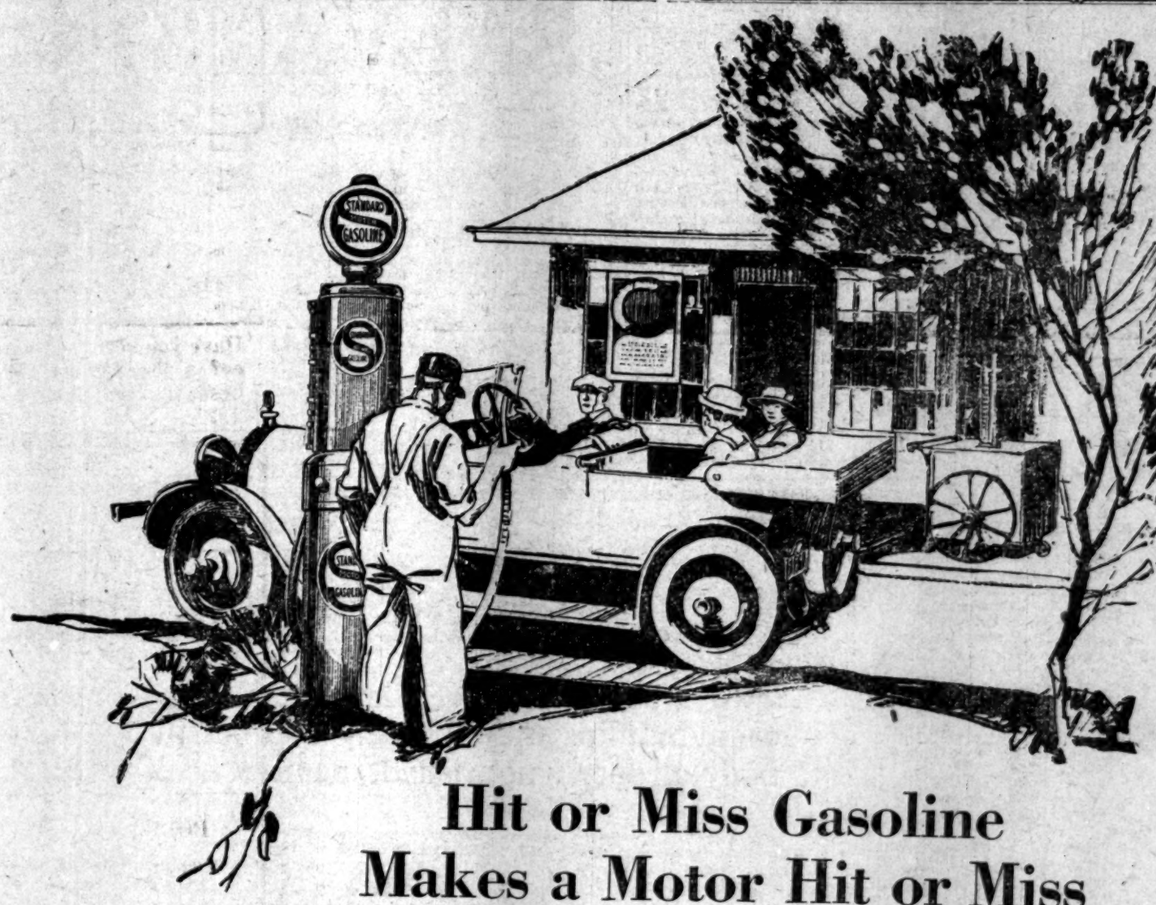
Tells Girls How She Found Relief From Pain

West Palm Beach, Fla.—"When I was 19 years old I was irregular and I had such terrible cramps it felt like a knife going through me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I was cured. After I was married I had the same trouble caused by the added work of farming and heavy washings so I told my husband to get six bottles of the Vegetable Compound and by taking it regularly my troubles ceased and now I never have a pain or ache, and am regular. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and think every young girl should take it. You can publish this letter and it may be the means of helping some other girl or woman." —Mrs. MARY M. WAGNER, Box 759, West Palm Beach, Florida.

While no woman is entirely free from periodic suffering it does not seem to be the plan of nature that woman should suffer so severely and when pain exists something is wrong which should be set right. Every girl who suffers from monthly cramps should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.



Hit or Miss Gasoline Makes a Motor Hit or Miss

THE problem of obtaining uniform quality is one of the difficulties that the successful gasoline producer has had to solve. The matter of varying quality is one of the greatest annoyances to the gasoline user.

It was easy to get a standard product when practically all the gasoline came from one or two types of crude petroleum. Comparatively little gasoline was used then. Today, the demand is so great that all parts of the globe have been explored for petroleum, which accounts for the great range of "crudes" on the market.

Gasoline must be uniform not only in one or two or three respects, but in every way that affects motor operation. Almost every property of the gasoline you use influences in some way the performance of your motor.

The Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) has never been content to have "Standard" Motor Gasoline exceptionally good in any one respect to the detriment of other properties.

The ideal would be to have every drop of gasoline as uniform in all its qualities as the chemicals and drugs which your pharmacist uses in a prescription. As a result of the co-operation of our Development and Manufacturing Departments, "Standard" Motor Gasoline is positively the best balanced and the highest in quality that you can buy. It is the same whether you get it in one corner of the state or another.

GETS THIRD LIFE TERM IN LAST FOUR YEARS

Point Pleasant, W. Va., Sept.19.—For the third time within four years W. H. (Holly) Griffith has been sentenced to life imprisonment in the State penitentiary at Moundsville. The jury which heard the evidence in the case of the State against Griffith, who was tried in connection with the killing January 13 last of Ira Roush, a riverman, today returned a verdict of guilty of first-degree murder, with a recommendation that the prisoner be given a life sentence, with one year's solitary confinement. Judge W. H. O'Brein pronounced the life sentence, but ignored the solitary confinement recommendation.

Griffith, who was serving a life term after being convicted of murder escaped from the State prison early in January of this year. The night he escaped another prisoner was killed, and when captured Griffith was tried and adjudged guilty in connection with his death. The second life sentence was passed upon him at that time.

RUGS MAY BE MENDED AND CLEANED BY HOME METHODS

The deft swift-moving fingers of the oriental rug mender can fill in holes and reinforced worn places so skillfully that they can scarcely be detected. Such repair work is expensive, however, and almost any person who has the time can do it at home with little or no outlay for materials. Housekeepers have repaired oriental rugs of intricate design as well as machine-made Brussels and Wilton.

How to Mend Rugs At Home

Several methods of home mending of rugs and carpets have been tested in the United States Department of Agriculture which gives the following suggestions:

Select wools for mending to match those of the rug in color and texture, if possible. These may be raveled from scraps of carpet, or bought from carpet dealers or if necessary heavy knitting yarns may be dyed to match. Carpet yarns are stiffer and more durable than ordinary wools and should be used if obtainable. A stout needle with a large eye will, of course, be needed and curved scissors are particularly convenient for clipping the threads when mending a rug or carpet with velvety pile.

Darn ingrain carpet with the over-and under stitch used in mending stockings, and work in the design on this background.

In pile rugs such as Brussels, Wilton, and some kinds of oriental weaves replace, the linen jute, or cotton backing first and then work in the pile with colored yarns. Just how to make the pile stitch depends on the texture of the rug, but a good method can quickly be developed by experimenting. It is generally made by knotting the yarn around the warp in such a way that it holds firmly and the neds stick up to form the velvety surface of the rug. These ends can be clipped off after each stitch is taken or they can all be sheared at once after the entire hole is filled.

Ragged edges make otherwise good rugs look shabby and are not difficult to repair. Sometimes they can be bound or blanket stitched or over cast with stitches run into the rug at least half inch or, what is much better looking, an excellent salvage similar to that on oriental rugs can eb made. Lay one two, or three cords along the edge and with black or neutral-colored wool darn them to the rug with over and under stitches set close together. Choose cords of such size that when covered with the wool a durable, flat strip about the thickness of the rug is fromed and use hard twisted wool or regular carpet wool if it can be obtained. If the edge is very ragged reinforce it first with braid on the underside so as to give a firm material into which to weave.

Rag and light weight cotton rugs can be washed in the tub or the washing machine in lukewarm soap suds like any other heavy colored material, but they must be rinsed thoroughly to prevent them from looking grimy. Spreading the wet rug on the grass and turning the hose on it or dashing pails of water over it is sometimes the easiest and best way of rinsing.

Clean A Small Section At a Time

Woolen rugs may also be cleaned at home successfully if there are good facilities for drying. Spread the rug on a table or other flat surface of convenient height and scrub wit ha heavy latehr of mild soap using a soft brush or a sponge. As soon as a section is scrubbed clean rinse it with water, change as soon as it becomes discolored. This is a very thorough method of cleaning but must be used with caution on rugs that are likely to shrink or change color, or which have a thick pile. If moisture remains at the bottom of the pile for any length of time the threads may be rotted. In the case of valuable rugs it is safer to send them to a professional cleaner who has special apparatus for washing and drying them.

Do It Now!

So many coal consumers have delayed putting in their Winter coal this season that there will be an urgent demand when the weather gets cold which will make it impossible for the mines to produce, the railroads to haul or the dealer to handle all orders as satisfactorily as the trade will want.

It is our advice to all consumers to enter their order now and have their coal put in as promptly as possible.

AUTO DOES 15 SOMERSAULTS; GIRL ESCAPES UNHURT

Stubenville, Ohio, Sept. 19 (Special).—Although a touring car in which she was the sole occupant, backed over a 250-foot embankment, looped-the-loop 15 times in it's decent and landed in a pile of wreckage in teh middle of a street here, Miss Bessie Phillipson, 15, a high school student escaped without a scratch.

John Cobrun, 23, was teaching the girl to drive and when the engine stalled he got out to crank the car. In some unknown way the girl driver threw it into reverse and the machine chine backed into a yard, ripped off a portion of a porch of a dwelling, continued on into the yard through a rear fence and then over the hill.

As it neared the end of it's journey a team of horses attached to an ice wagon took fright at the noise made by the hurtling machine and ran away, crashing into the safety gates of a Panhandle Railroad crossing. The gates saved both from being killed by a speeding passenger train.

Sour Cream Dairying

Atlanta Ga. Sept. 20.—Sour cream dairying is being advocated by the Development Service of the Southern Railway System and the Mobile and Ohio Railroad as a means to enable the average farmer of the South to get away from the one crop system and attendant credit evils and at the same time to improve his soil so as to grow staple crops more profitably.

"These results can be obtained wherever farmers will take up dairying, selling their cream and feeding the skim milk to poultry and hogs" says General Agricultural Agent Roland Turner. "This does not mean that farmers should give up general farming for dairying but that every farmer should keep a few cows.

"Creameries at a number of strategic points in the South are already operating, successfully, affording markets for cream to farmers within shipping distance. The Development Service of the Southern has assisted in the establishment of a creamery at Ashburn Ga., to be opened October 1, and it is hoped that the number of milk cows on Southern farms will be increased sufficiently in the near future to warrant the establishment of creameries in other sections.

"Creamery butter always commands a good price and the market is at hand. All the Southern States send away every year thousands of dollars for butter which should be produced intheSouth."

Masonic Activity

Norman Okla. Sept. 20.—With the completion of the $250,000 Scottish Rite Masonic boy's dormitory at the University of Oklahoma, which will be occupied for the first time when the fall semester opens, Sept. 15, members of the Albert Pike Lodge of Prefection No. 2, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, of the Valley of South McAlester, McAlester, Okla., feel that they have taken a new step forward in ecucational work by Masons in universities and colleges in the United States.

Members of the five Scottish Rite Consistories in Texas have combined and are perfecting plans for a system of domitories at the University of Texas ,following the plans that have been completed by the Scotish Rite Masons of the McAlester Consistory. Scottish Rite Masons in Missouri also have under consideration similar plans for the University of Missouri, although thus far no definate steps have been taken.

In the fall of 1919 members of the McAlester Consistory were informed that there were self-supporting students, both men and women, at the University of Oklahoma, who needed assistance while securing their university education. It was pointed out that if these students could be provided with home-like facilities at actual cost, many of them would be able to remain at the university and complete their education. Within 24 hours plans had ben perfected for the erection of dormitories by the McAlester Scottish Rite Masons.

Two building sites were purchased and work started on the boy'e dormitory in March, 1920. The boy's dormitory, which was completed in June, 1921, will acomodate 120 students and is located opposite the main entrance to the University of Oklahoma. It includes a suite for the house-mother, and a complete lodge plant.

The architecture is of Collegiate Gothic, material being red brick body with white stone trimmings, following general plan of the buildings on the university campus. The two units are connected with a memorial tower more than 100 feet high. On clear days the Oklahoma State capitol building, 20 miles to the north in Oklahama City, may be seen from the tower. A Masonic lecture room is situated near the top of the tower for sure by students preapring for the various degrees of the blue lodge work.

The dormitory is thoroughly modern and fire proof throughout. The California domitory system, which is proving so popular at Leland Stanford University, has been followed. Four boys will be assigned to each suite, which includes a separate study hall, shower bath, lavatory and two bedrooms. The rooms are furnished with Murphy folding beds and large closet space.

With the completion of this dormitory, for which enough applications have already been filed to fill it this fall, the Scottish Rite Masons of the McAlester Consistory are already considering plans for the girl's dormitory, which will be erected a short distance north from the boy's dormitory. Tentative plans for the girl's dormitory includes a cafeteria where both boys and girls will be furnished food at cost.

Room rent in the boy's dormitory will be just enough to cover actual operative expenses, according to H. L. Muldrow, 33 degree, Hon., chairman of the building committee and board of control of the Masonic plant at the University of Oklahoma.. Muldrow is also president of the University of Oklahoma board of regents, and was the last Grand Master of Indian Territory and the first Grand Master of the State of Oklahoma. He originated the Scottish Rite Masonic domitory plan and, with O. L. Conner, 33 degree Hon., of Vinita, Okla., worked out the details of the dormitory plans before presenting them to the McAlester Scotish Rite Consistory Masons, who decided to promote operative Masonry by aiding educational work in Oklahoma by building dormitories at the University of Oklahoma.

Fox In The White House

By WALLACE BASSFORD

(Special News Correspondent.)

Washington, Sep. 19.—The usually amiable gentleman in the White House has written a letter to Senator Medill McCormick in which he ruthlessly assails the Democrats for the tremendous expense of conducting the Government at the present time. The President evidently feels that the Illinois Senator, who has been spending a number of weeks in Europe while the country gasped for relief at the hands of Congress, is in need of some information as to the state of affairs at home.

The President at some length congratulates the country on the great amount of good legislation passed by the Republican Congress in the six months that have elapsed since it began to function. He apologies for the fact that none of the three big things has been donc that the President and the country expected Congress to do. The tariff bill has not been enacted, the tax reduction has not been passed—in fact, the Senate Committee on Finance is just beginning to tear the House Bill to pieces in order to re-write it. After the Senate Committee re-writes it the Senate gets a chance to tear it to pieces, then it goes back to the House and that body may, by that time, be in the humor to do a little re-writing of its own. The President even alludes to his hope that Congress may, after the recess, pass the railroad funding bill. According to the daily press, he is not, however, depending entirely on that chance, for he is reported to be trying to find a way to pay off the railroad claims and re-fund the Government's claims without legislative authority.

In assailing the Democrats for the present high cost of Government, the President had amazed Washingtonians by laying himself open to severe criticism. Certainly the President cannot have forgotten, even if he thinks the country has, that all of the power over appropriations has been held by the Republicans themselves for two years, six months and sixteen days from the date of this article. They have had the sole power, which the Constitution gives to Congress alone, to levy taxes and appropriate the sums secured from such taxation. While Mr. Wilson was President for two years of this time, Congress during those two years was Republican in both branches, and Mr. Wilson and the members of his cabinet could not alter the rates of taxation or name the objects upon which the tax should be collected, and could not expend one penny of revenues without the item having been provided for by the Republican Congress. Every one knows that the appropriations of the present fiscal year, and of the last fiscal year were made by Republican Congresses; if they are excessive, let the President lay the blame where it belongs, on his own party. Leaving out the special expenses necessary to the conduct of the war, the geenral expenses of the Government have been larger under th appropriations of the Republicans than under the Democrats, And while the Republicans have absolutely controlled Congress for these thirty and one half months, taxes have not been reduced one single penny. It is not necessary to prove these things they are matters of common knowledge. The country is still paying war taxes, almost three years after the signing of the armistice, and those ever changing proposals for reduction, none of which have been carried cut, are mainly in the interest of the big corporations and the millionaires, such as Secretary Mellon himself, while the proposals will actually increase the taxes of thousands of small corporatons. The average income taxpayer is offered a sop in the way of an increased exemption. No one doubts that he needs it and a good deal more.

Of course the President merely used Senator McCormick as a peg on which to hang a letter which was intended to draw public attention from the shortcomings of the Republican Congress, but it rather serves to remind the people that these faults of the Congress are many and that they cover a long period, and it also reminds them that the Senator has been one, though only one of many, of those legislators who accept the salary of the position while loafing on the job.
